

Privacy Policy

Protecting your private information is our priority. This Statement of Privacy applies to findingyesterdays.com and Finding Yesterdays and governs data collection and usage. For the purposes of this Privacy Policy, unless otherwise noted, all references to Finding Yesterdays include findingyesterdays.com. The Finding Yesterdays website is a genealogist business and information site. By using the Finding Yesterdays website, you consent to the data practices described in this statement.

Collection of your Personal Information

In order to better provide you with products and services offered on our Site, Finding Yesterdays may collect personally identifiable information, such as your:

- First and Last Name
- E-mail Address
- Phone Number

If you purchase Finding Yesterdays's products and services, we collect billing and credit card information. This information is used to complete the purchase transaction.

Finding Yesterdays may also collect anonymous demographic information, which is not unique to you, such as your:

- Age
- Gender

Please keep in mind that if you directly disclose personally identifiable information or personally sensitive data through Finding Yesterdays's public message boards, this information may be collected and used by others.

We do not collect any personal information about you unless you voluntarily provide it to us. However, you may be required to provide certain personal information to us when you elect to use certain products or services available on the Site. These may include: (a) registering for an account on our Site; (b) entering a sweepstakes or contest sponsored by us or one of our partners; (c) signing up for special offers from selected third parties; (d) sending us an email message; (e) submitting your credit card or other payment information when ordering and purchasing products and services on our Site. To wit, we will use your information for, but not limited to, communicating with you in relation to services and/or products you have requested from us. We also may gather additional personal or non-personal information in the future.

Use of your Personal Information

Finding Yesterdays collects and uses your personal information to operate its website(s) and deliver the services you have requested.

Finding Yesterdays may also use your personally identifiable information to inform you of other products or services available from Finding Yesterdays and its affiliates.

Sharing Information with Third Parties

Finding Yesterdays does not sell, rent or lease its customer lists to third parties.

Finding Yesterdays may, from time to time, contact you on behalf of external business partners about a particular offering that may be of interest to you. In those cases, your unique personally identifiable information (e-mail, name, address, telephone number) is not transferred to the third party. Finding Yesterdays may share data with trusted partners to help perform statistical analysis, send you email or postal mail, provide customer support, or arrange for deliveries. All such third parties are prohibited from using your personal information except to provide these services to Finding Yesterdays, and they are required to maintain the confidentiality of your information.

Finding Yesterdays may disclose your personal information, without notice, if required to do so by law or in the good faith belief that such action is necessary to: (a) conform to the edicts of the law or comply with legal process served on Finding Yesterdays or the site; (b) protect and defend the rights or property of Finding Yesterdays; and/or (c) act under exigent circumstances to protect the personal safety of users of Finding Yesterdays, or the public.

Tracking User Behavior

Finding Yesterdays may keep track of the websites and pages our users visit within Finding Yesterdays, in order to determine what Finding Yesterdays services are the most popular. This data is used to deliver customized content and advertising within Finding Yesterdays to customers whose behavior indicates that they are interested in a particular subject area.

Automatically Collected Information

Information about your computer hardware and software may be automatically collected by Finding Yesterdays. This information can include: your IP address, browser type, domain names, access times and referring website addresses. This information is used for the operation of the service, to maintain quality of the service, and to provide general statistics regarding use of the Finding Yesterdays website.

Use of Cookies

The Finding Yesterdays website may use "cookies" to help you personalize your online experience. A cookie is a text file that is placed on your hard disk by a web page server. Cookies cannot be used to run programs or deliver viruses to your computer. Cookies are uniquely assigned to you, and can only be read by a web server in the domain that issued the cookie to you.

One of the primary purposes of cookies is to provide a convenience feature to save you time. The purpose of a cookie is to tell the Web server that you have returned to a specific page. For example, if you personalize Finding Yesterdays pages, or register with Finding Yesterdays site or services, a cookie helps Finding Yesterdays to recall your specific information on subsequent visits. This simplifies the process of recording your personal information, such as billing addresses, shipping addresses, and so on. When you return to the same Finding Yesterdays website, the information you previously provided can be retrieved, so you can easily use the Finding Yesterdays features that you customized.

You have the ability to accept or decline cookies. Most Web browsers automatically accept cookies, but you can usually modify your browser setting to decline cookies if you prefer. If you choose to decline cookies, you may not be able to fully experience the interactive features of the Finding Yesterdays services or websites you visit.
